Jump Point Sizes	Special Activity Est. Levels	System Composition	Location Info and Threat Rating
Castra (L)	Black Market: Drugs and illegal medical treatment at Corner Four lab		Adir	Planetary Moon	The crater-ridden surface of Adir is broken only by a 700 km long streak of slick, shiny obsidian in its southern hemisphere.
Nyx (M)	POI: Neutrality dive bar is "safe" location		Fairo	Planetary Moon	Frequent earthquakes rock Fairo, causing spectacular waves in its lava oceans.
Stanton (M)			Fuego	Planetary Moon	High amounts of iron-sulfide in Fuego's soil turn it a livid shade of yellow-black.
Cano (S)	Striking landscapes due protoplanet and gases from nearby Pyro V		Ignis	Planetary Moon	This innermost moon of Pyro V is covered in deep canyons and dried riverbeds. No other signs of water remain on its desiccated surface.
Hadrian (S)			Pyro I	Dwarf Planet	A dwarf planet charred black from the constant, violent solar flares of the system's star.
Oso (S)			Pyro II	Terrestrial Rocky	A coreless planet that once held significant mineral deposits, a "metal rush" quickly picked the planet clean and left it an empty husk.
Terra (S)			Pyro III	Lava Planet	Scientists speculate that this terrestrial planet survived a collision with pieces of the planet-sized body that knocked Pyro IV out of its orbit.
			Pyro IV	Protoplanet	A rocky protoplanet that has been mined clean. Knocked out of orbit by a celestial body of equal mass, it is slowly being pulled into Pyro V.
		Pyro V	Gas Giant	Pyro V is a massive yellow and green gas giant that's slowly pulling Pyro IV into its orbit.
		Pyro VI	Protoplanet	This protoplanet suffers little damage from Pyro's distant star.
		Ruin Station	Space Station	A Gold Horizon platform orbiting Pyro VI. It was owned and operated by Pyrotechnic Amalgamated until it was abandoned and then overrun by outlaws. Feuds between factions ..
		Vatra	Planetary Moon	The thick, high-pressure nitrogen-methane atmosphere of this moon hides lakes of hydrocarbons.
		Vuur	Planetary Moon	Vuur is rich in carbon and little else.
